[1] The term "members" includes all regular and associate Exchange members, and member firms, general, special and limited partners in member firms, and voting and non-voting stockholders in member corporations.

[2] On the American Stock Exchange, all odd-lot transactions are handled by specialists, and their round-lot purchases and sales for odd-lot account are not segregated from their other round-lot transactions. In odd-lot transactions, customers' purchases are specialists' sales and customers' sales are specialists' purchases.

NOTE: All sales totals include short sales.

STOCKHOLDINGS OF INSTITUTIONAL INVESTORS AND OTHERS

Institutional investors held $398 billion of corporate stock, both common and preferred, at year end 1972; their holdings were $327 billion at the end of the previous year. The institutions listed in the accompanying table thus owned 34.0 percent of total stock outstanding; individuals owned 62.9 percent.[1/] Comparatively, in 1960, institutional stockholders owned 26.7 percent of outstanding stock and domestic individuals owned 70.1 percent. The percentage of outstanding stock owned by foreign investors was slightly over 3 percent in both 1960 and 1972. Data for 1972 are preliminary and subject to adjustment.

The two largest institutional stockholders are private noninsured pension funds and personal trust funds, which together account for well over 50 percent of total institutional stockholdings. Mutual funds, as the third largest institutional stockholder, owned $58 billion at the end of 1972. Foreign individuals and institutions owned an estimated $36 billion of U. S. stock at the end of 1972.

1/ See the May 23, 1973 edition of the Securities and Exchange Commission Statistical Bulletin for the derivation of market value of outstanding corporate stock in the U. S.
